Hockey Rivalry Increases as League Schedule Progresses

Hockey Players Had Trying Experience on Trip to Lethbridge

Spent Five Hours in Snowdrift at Cowley Trying to Dig Out Greyhound Bus—Doubtful if Came to Rescue.

Coleman Canadians played under a handicap in their match at Lethbridge on Jan. 3rd. Leaving here by bus late in the afternoon, several of the players completing a day's work in the mines, they were late in reaching Lethbridge, and immediately turned out to play. The result was they were not in good form, which contributed to their defeat of 5-3 by the fast Lethbridge team. The return trip was even more trying, for the bus became stalled near Cowley, and for several hours all able-bodied passengers helped to extricate it. When they reached Coleman at 10 a.m. Friday their clothes were in a disreputable condition, being caked with dirt to such an extent that some looked as if they had been in a concrete mixer. The aid of neighboring farmers was finally secured to extricate the bus.

NEW OFFICER TAKES OVER SALVATION ARMY WORK

Capt. H. F. Hoevedt arrived recently to succeed Lieut. Carter in charge of S. A. work in the Pass towns, with headquarters in Coleman. The latter will leave shortly, after three months service here.

Capt. Hoevedt was graduated from the training college in Winnipeg, and his first appointment was Kenora, Ont., and while there organized Army work in the Trans-Canada highway camps between Kenora and Winnipeg. From there he went to Meadow Lake, Sask., engaging in missionary work among the new settlers, and experiencing the rigors of pioneer life with plenty of horseback riding.

His next appointment was at Lloydminster, where three months was spent in the finance department of the Army offices in Saskatchewan.

Captain Hoevedt intends to re-organize the Army's work in the Crow's Nest Pass, believing there is a good field for its activities here. When the value of the Army's world-wide work is considered, it usually arouses a generous response, and it is hoped that Capt. Hoevedt will receive the support and co-operation of the public.

Town of Coleman

By motion of the Town Council, William Antel was appointed town constable to carry out the duties pertaining to the office, and with full authority to act as town constable.

By Order,
THE TOWN COUNCIL.

Coleman School District No. 1216

Annual Meeting Friday, January 25, 1935 in the Council Chamber at 8 p. m.

Financial Report for 1934 and reports of committees will be submitted.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that a meeting of ratepayers of Coleman School District No. 1216, will be held in the Council Chamber, Town of Coleman, on Friday, January 25th, 1935, at 8 o'clock p. m.

Dated at Coleman, Alberta, this 10th day of January, 1935.

JAMES FORD, Secy.-Treas.

Lethbridge Maple Leafs Here January 17

The above team will play their league game against Coleman on Jan. 17. Coleman will probably wipe out the defeat of 5-3 by Maple Leafs on Jan. 3. This game should draw a big house.

Big Race for Championship Honors Now on Between Leaders in Crow League

There are indications that the Crow League hockey series will be productive of the keenest rivalry seen in many years. On Tuesday, Coleman, Medicine Hat and Lethbridge were tied in the league standing with six points each, Blairmore and Bellevue none, though on Sunday afternoon in an exhibition game at Lethbridge, Bellevue held the Maple Leafs 0 to 4 a draw.

The next game here between Medicine Hat and Coleman on Monday next will draw a big house. It is the first time this team has visited Coleman in many years, consequently with their inclusion this year in the Crow league the rivalry for provincial honors is increased.

Though there are fewer games in his year's schedule, the shortage will be more than made up for in the widespread interest being aroused.

Coleman Canadians appear resplendent in their 1935 uniforms, and the team has also made some worth-while improvements at the rink. It is anticipated they will receive good support in their league matches particularly when Medicine Hat and Lethbridge come to Coleman.

A special meeting of the executive and syllabus committees of the Crow's Nest Pass Musical Festival was held on Sunday afternoon at the home of the secretary, Mrs. J. H. Farmer, Blairmore, and it was decided to engage Mr. Cyril Hampshire of Regina as adjudicator for the 1935 festival, to be held on Oct. 24-25-26.

Present at the meeting were Wm. Kerr, president; Mr. Moffatt, W. H. Moser, J. E. Upton, Miss Madeleine Chardon, W. H. Chappell, H. T. Halliwell.

LABORATORY FOR GHOST STUDY

Of considerable historical interest is the comparatively recent formation of the University of London Council for Psychical Investigation. It is the first academic group in Great Britain to study the alleged phenomena of the seance room, as well as the first academic group in any country to possess a laboratory specially equipped for the study of abnormal phenomena.

L. A. McKinley of the circulation department of the Calgary, Alberta was here today. He is re-organizing distribution in the Pass towns.

MR. AND MRS. McLEOD WED FOR FIFTY YEARS

Esteemed Coleman Couple Honored

COLEMAN, Jan. 8.—Fifty years of married life of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. H. McLeod were marked by members of Minerva chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, and other local organizations, the Star chapter, of which Mrs. McLeod is a past worthy matron, presenting them a beautiful chime clock, and the ladies' Masonary Society of St. Paul's United church presenting them an electric table lamp.

They were married in Westville, Nova Scotia, on December 31, 1884, by Rev. Robert Cummings, D.D., at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alexander Fraser. Mr. Fraser having passed on some years previously. Coming west in 1888, then they lived at Michiel for five years and at Hosmer one year, when it was a very active point for C.P.R. coal mining.

They came to Coleman in 1909, and Mr. McLeod during that time was first with International Coal Co., and later with McGillivray Coal Co., being storekeeper with the latter company at the time of his retirement.

Their three sons are Rodrick of Merida, Alta.; Herdman, president of M. L. D. River Coal Co., Merced, and Fraser, provincial boiler inspector, of Lethbridge. They have 24 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Mr. McLeod is a palmer of Western Star Lodge, A.F. and A.M., Westville, N.S., in which he has over 50 years' membership. Mrs. McLeod, who before her marriage was an operator for the Western Union Telegraph Co. in Halifax, Truro and Westville, has taken a very active part in local affairs. Included among her activities are the Women's Institute, of which she is a past president, member of the relief committee, local president of the Red Cross, president of the Ladies Aid and Masonary Societies of St. Paul's church, and she also served as a school trustee several years ago. Despite her more than three score years, she still maintains an active interest in these organizations, and has seen Coleman progress from an early mining camp to quite a substantial town served by public utilities such as water and light services.

Her maiden name was Marjory Jane Fraser, daughter of Alexander Fraser and Christy Ann Lawrie of Westville, N.S. At their comfortable home on Fourth street they have been the recipients of many congratulatory messages during the holiday season, for Mrs. McLeod by her kindly interest and active work has endeared herself in the hearts of not only old neighbors and friends, but also of those who have come during later years to live in Coleman.

It is believed this is the first golden wedding anniversary to be celebrated in the Pass towns, therefore it is looked on as an unique event.

BLAIRMORE HAS WATER SHORTAGE

Owing to water being diverted from York Creek into the International Mine to extinguish the fire which broke out in November, the storage reservoir of Blairmore water works was so depleted that fears were entertained in case of fire there would be no sufficient water to cope with it. It is reported that eventually another source of supply will have to be connected with the system, likely the Old Man river, the coal company having franchise rights for the use of water from York Creek.

WINTER HIGHWAY PROGRAM

Winter road clearance program of the provincial department of public works for the present winter will cover practically the same mileage of main highways as last season, approximately 1000 miles. This will be carried out and extended as rapidly and successfully as weather conditions permit.

SERVICES

Sunday school in the Salvation Army hall at 3 p.m. Evening service p.m.

ST. PAUL'S UNITED CHURCH

Sun. Jan. 13 the first Sacramental service of 1935 will be held, and a reception of members will be held. The girls choir will sing and Mr. Taylor will take for his subject "Pray for Bread."

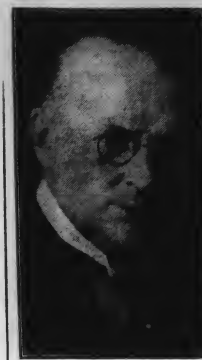

At 7 p.m. the senior choir will sing an anthem, and Mr. Taylor will begin a series of sermons on Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress."

The annual meeting of the congregation will be held on Jan. 21 at 7 p.m. for receiving reports and election to the board of managers.—Mrs. R. Upton, choir leader; Rev. Roy C. Taylor, minister.

In conjunction with a world-wide week of prayer, services are being held by the local churches this week. Rev. Mr. Taylor and Rev. Mr. Partington exchanging churches, and Lieut. Carter and Capt. Hoevedt of the Salvation Army assisting in the services. They commence at 7 p.m. each evening.

Alex. Balloch, the energetic reporter for The Journal, was forced to spend last week at home through sickness, with the result that his sporting reports were missed from The Journal.

Town Council Notes

At the council meeting on Tuesday, James Ford, town clerk, was appointed returning officer for the annual municipal elections to be held on Monday, Feb. 11. Three councillors are to be elected, the terms of Wm. Chapman, W. Burrows and A. Harr, expiring.

On the school trustee board the terms of J. M. Allan, A. Reid and George Evans expire.

W. A. Vaughn, for several years travelling salesman for the wholesale house of Fernie, recently took a similar position with a Lethbridge wholesale firm, and a distributing depot has been established at Blairmore for the Pass towns. Isn't it time that Coleman retailers insisted on a distributing warehouse being established here? Coleman has the largest population of the Pass towns.

Proposal to Organize Branch Canadian Concert Association

Would Hold Three Concerts During Season—Outstanding Artists Would Appear

It has been suggested by a few interested in musical affairs that an engagement be made with the Hart House Quartet, of Toronto, for a concert here. They would appear under direction of the Canadian Concert Association, which arranges concerts of distinguished musical artists. Vernon, Nelson, Trail and Lethbridge will likely be included in the western tour of the Hart House quartet, and arrangements now made would have to be for next year, 1936, as plans must be made well in advance to secure these concerts. If sufficient people are interested, the concert may be sponsored locally by the Community hall committee. Several from the Pass towns have indicated their willingness to support any effort that may be made in this direction.

The proposal is well worthy of consideration, for all artists appearing under this association are of national renown and of the highest calibre.

16 Hampers of Christmas Cheer Sent out as Result of Whist Drive
Mrs. R. P. Borden Re-Appointed District Commissioner of Girl Guides

The annual meeting of the Girl Guide Association for the Crow's Nest Pass was held in Bellevue on December 19th, and well represented from Coleman, Blairmore, Bellevue and Lundbreck.

Crow's Nest Pass district has been made a division by provincial headquarters, and Mrs. R. P. Borden was re-appointed division commissioner.

Dominion headquarters is sending Miss Williams to hold training classes for Guides and prospective Guides.

France And Italy Agree To Guarantee Independence Of Austria

Rome. — Complete agreement on general policies and Franco-Italian colonial questions was reached by French Premier Benito Mussolini and French Foreign Minister Pierre Laval here in a conference which did not conclude until early Monday morning.

The announcement was made following an unexpected renewal of the negotiations between the two statesmen during and after a brilliant dinner tendered Sunday night to Mussolini at the French embassy.

Laval and Mussolini secluded themselves in a private room of the embassy after dinner and continued their three-hour talk in the Palazzo Venezia Sunday morning.

After midnight had struck the two statesmen announced they had reached a complete accord as the gathering of notables pressed about them.

They joined in saying diplomatic documents would be signed later, and that they would issue a public statement describing the details of these documents.

Agreements guaranteeing Austria's independence and insuring present boundary safeguards in central Europe were reached during their second interview, held Sunday morning. Under the terms of these agreements France and Italy will rally to Austria's aid if that country's independence is menaced by any new attack. Countries to be invited to join this treaty are Germany, Hungary, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, and later Rumania and Poland.

African colonial issues between France and Italy involve the ceding of some French territory to Italy on Libya's southern boundary. The length of time Italian residents of Tunisia may continue to enjoy their present privileges and the granting to Italy of a share in the Ethiopian (Abyssinian) railway or some corresponding concession in the port of Djibuti, owned by France.

Mussolini had been reported dissatisfied with the offers made by France in the colonial questions up to the time of the banquet at the French embassy.

Agreement was also reached, it was understood, on a treaty of non-interference by which central European nations would agree not to interfere in the internal affairs of the nations concerned and also join to suppress acts of international terrorism threatening territorial integrity. Italy would ask Germany, Hungary, Austria, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia to sign with her.

Stratosphere Flight

Wiley Post To Attempt To Fly From Coast To Coast At High Altitude
Los Angeles.—Wiley Post, noted aviator, announced he would attempt within three weeks, to fly from Los Angeles to New York through the stratosphere.

Wearing his own designed "stratosphere oxygen suit," he said he expected to keep his ship, the Winnie Mae, at an altitude of at least 30,000 feet during the trip, which he estimated would require eight hours. Post said he hoped to maintain a speed of not less than 330 miles an hour.

"I know that my oxygen suit will protect me from the cold and atmospheric conditions at 30,000 and 35,000 feet altitudes," he said.

Opening Session Of The Alberta Legislature Is Set For February 7

Edmonton. — With discussions of municipal financing, of co-ops of industry, of the rural education situation and of possible changes in the Provincial Election Act scheduled, Alberta's legislature on February 7 will commence what promises to be one of the most important sessions in years. Additional importance will be lent by the fact that an election is due this year and probably will be held in June.

Reports gathered by a taxation inquiry commission after an exhaustive survey of conditions in the province will be laid before the members early in the session. Revision of the Debt Adjustment Act is likely, particu-

Oppose St. Lawrence Plan

Legislative Committee Of Railway Brotherhoods Interview Government
Ottawa.—Continued opposition to the St. Lawrence deep waterways scheme, approval of the government's relief efforts and endorsement of a contributory national unemployment insurance act were features of the proposals submitted to Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and his associates by the joint legislative committee of the railway transportation brother-

After nearly two hours' discussion with the government heads the delegation left with assurances their proposals would be given consideration.

The railway men would have the senate's power to veto suspended in respect to a bill that has passed the commons twice; and broaden the scope of federal authority to enable it to enact social legislation for the benefit of the people as a whole and to regulate highway transport as a work "for the general advantage of Canada."

Other legislation requested would provide compensation for loss of property of employees forced to move because of the abandonment of railway divisional points, stations or mileage; required at least two men on all units of motive power and increase the federal treasury contribution to the level crossing elimination fund from $200,000 annually as at present, to $500,000.

Child Smothered By Snow

Trapped In Play Tunnel When Sides Caved In

Riviere Du Loup, Que.—A game played by every child who has lived in Canada in the winter time led to the death of Laval Lapointe, 11, and a narrow escape for his brother, Jean Charles, 13.

The two children of Alfred Lapointe built a snow fort and dug a tunnel under several feet of snow to use as an entrance. Then they decided to test the tunnel. Jean Charles had just got his head out of the mouth of the tunnel, his brother close behind him, when the sides caved in, imprisoning both.

Several hours later a neighbor, attracted by the cries of Jean Charles, ran to the scene and pulled him out, the lower part of his body badly frozen. Laval had been dead for some time, smothered by the snow.

Canadians In Saar Vote

Inquiry To Be Made At Coming Session Of Parliament

Ottawa.—Inquiry will be directed to the government at the coming session of parliament about residents of Canada going to the Saar basin to vote on the coming plebiscite as to whether that territory should return to German jurisdiction.

J. A. Mercer (Liberal, Laurier-Ontario), has given notice of a question asking if the government is aware some residents of Canada have gone to the Saar to vote, if government officials have assisted such people in any way, if so, the names and addresses of the people assisted and whether any step will be taken to have their names removed from the voters' list in Canada by reason of their voting in a foreign country.

Riots In Saar Territory

Nazis And Anti-Nazis Clash In Turbulent New Year Row

Saarluecken, Saar Basin Territory.—Nazis and anti-Nazis in the Saar counted bullet wounds and hand-grenade heads after the turbulent opening of the New Year.

The League of Nations governing commission, meanwhile, moved to forestall further political strife, warning Nazis the order against political demonstrations bans any such rousing welcome as was given the first Saarlanders arriving from abroad to vote in the plebiscite Jan. 13.

Thirty former Saar residents arrived from Chile and were quietly taken in taxis to their places of residence.

As reports of heated clashes throughout the territory continued to trickle into Saarluecken, the toll of those injured in the last 48 hours was set at 100 or more. Two men were found dead—one stabbed, the other shot—but it was not certain their deaths resulted from political quarrels. The German front set its injured at 60.

The New Year's disorders brought the arrest of 50 persons, it was reported but not officially confirmed.

A Labor Council

Winnipeg Civic Administration Expected To Favor Man On The Street

Winnipeg.—The predominant Labor power in Winnipeg's 1935 city council exerted its force at the inaugural meeting and took control of the city's standing administration committees.

With Mayor John Queen at the helm and Labor representatives manning four of the six most important posts it was made clear at the first meeting that Winnipeg's official craft would follow charts favorable to "the man on the street." They headed committees on finances, improvement, health and utilities.

At the November elections Labor, Independent Labor and Communist candidates made up nine of the 18 council seats and with the Labor mayor to cast a deciding vote it was seen Labor policies would be most favored.

To Regulate Marketing

Ontario Producers Submit Plan For Export Of Beef

Ottawa.—Ontario producers' plan to regulate marketing for export of beef and dairy cattle from the province to Great Britain and other European countries met a favorable reception before the Dominion marketing board. The official decision, though, is not expected for several weeks, when livestock marketing schemes of western provinces will have advanced.

The proposals contemplate regulation of the export of both quantity and quality of Ontario's cattle under a local board of 16 members to be known as the Ontario cattle export marketing board. Its headquarters would be in Toronto.

Quintuplets Receive Charters

Fort Erie, Ont.—A peculiarly shaped crate that entered Canada through this border port excited unusual attention from customs officials. Upon inspection it was found to contain five high chairs equipped with the latest gadgets for elevating, folding or converting into unique "sitting room" chairs. They are the gift of a Cleveland furniture firm to the Dionne quintuplets at Callander, Ont.

New Rule For Convicts

If Conduct Satisfactory Will Be Paid For Labor

Ottawa. — Convicts in Canadian penitentiaries will receive a money payment for their labor starting with the new year, Brig-Gen. D. M. Ormond, superintendent of penitentiaries, announced on the authority of Minister of Justice Hugh Guthrie. They will be paid at the rate of five cents a day for each day they work, provided their conduct and diligence is satisfactory to the warden and provided they are not undergoing punishment of deprivation of any privilege for offences against rules and regulations.

The new rule is designed to encourage good conduct and diligence on the part of convicts undergoing sentence and to provide them with a small sum of money with which to maintain themselves on their release until they can secure employment.

In addition to the five cents a day for actual work done the convicts will be allowed five cents a day for each day of remission they have earned at the time of their release in excess of 72 days. Under the rules convicts are entitled to six days' remission a month for good conduct until they have earned 72 days and thereafter to 10 days a month. A convict with 100 days' remission to his credit is released 100 days in advance of the normal expiration of his sentence.

Low Temperature Record

73 Degrees Below Zero Reported At Great Bear Lake

Edmonton.—Establishing a record for the coldest spot in Canada, Great Bear Lake sprang into the limelight New Year's Day when the temperature reached 73 degrees below zero, according to the official government meteorological bureau thermometer at Cameron Bay, N.W.T.

Previous record was held by Mayo, Y.T., when on December 20, 1933, the mercury slid to 68 below to beat the former record of 67 below established at Fort Vermilion, January 11, 1911.

Hundreds Attend Levee

Ottawa.—Nearly 700 attended the annual New Year's Day levee of the governor-general held in the Hall of Fame of the parliament buildings. It was the fourth of such receptions held by the Earl of Beaulieu since coming to Ottawa in April, 1931, as representative of King George.

Unemployment Insurance And Old Age Pension Plan Are Promised By Premier

Ottawa. — Contributory unemployment insurance, a remodelled old age pension scheme, health, sickness and accident insurance, amended income tax laws to correct inequality in wealth distribution, minimum wage laws and maximum hours of work, and further legislation in the interests of farmers, were promised by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett as part of his new reform policy.

Delivering the second of a series of pre-election addresses, Mr. Bennett reiterated his belief that the economic system had broken down and required radical alterations if it was to be saved and made serviceable to the people. He proposed to make those changes and expressed the confidence that once the people knew the true conditions in Canada they would give him the support to enable him to carry out his policies.

Mr. Bennett castigated the system which he said, permitted large numbers of willing workers to be unemployed, that kept producers from their just share of the world's wealth and allowed non-producers to secure what he believed to be an unequal share. He declared the belief that a workman should be held to his task throughout "the daylight hours," and advocated a minimum wage and maximum working week.

His references were directed to "white-collar" workers as well as laborers, and he declared that income adjustments by statute should not trespass further than they had already upon the non-producers' income when it was only sufficient to maintain the possessor in the ordinary necessities and comforts of life.

Compare the lower scale of wages with taxes, interest and other elements in the cost of living. Compare wages paid with profits made. Look at our public and private debt. Is it not tremendous, and still mounting? Can we honestly say that we are making satisfactory headway toward correcting these conditions and lightening our burdens? I fear that we cannot.

Just here, I think, a good many who are listening to me would ask: Do you consider that the income of the non-producer in relation to the income of the producer, constitutes an ideal division of current wealth or current purchasing power? And to that question I would unhesitatingly answer "No." I think there is, from all worthwhile points of view, an inequality in the distribution of income, and I think, as between the non-producer and the producer, there must be devised, by some plan of taxation to be considered at once, a better balance, not only in fairness to the producer, but also in the interests of the non-producer.

Completes Last Trip

Captain Of Liner Retires After 44 Years Service

Vancouver.—A 44-year association with the sea was severed when Capt. A. J. Halley, R.N.R., brought the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada into port. It was the vessel's last trip under Capt. Halley's command. He is retiring and will be succeeded by Capt. A. J. Hoskins, formerly commander of the Empress of Russia.

The veteran mariner, who left his English home when he was 16 to become a seaman's apprentice, has commanded everything from sailing ships to palatial trans-Pacific liners. He joined the fleet of the Canadian Pacific here 34 years ago and rose, in 10 years, from fourth officer to commander.

Capt. Halley will spend his time between here and Pender harbor, on coast where he has a summer home. His hobby is motor boating.

Youngest Air Pilot

Brantford, Ont.—James Hamilton, 15-year-old Brantford collegiate student, believed to be Canada's second youngest aeroplane pilot, made two solo flights recently, ascending 2,000 feet on each occasion and making perfect landings. A 14-year-old boy in Vancouver is said to be the Dominion's youngest flyer. Neither can attain to official status of a pilot because they are under age.

Income Tax Payments Up

Substantial Increase Over Same Period Of Last Year

Ottawa. — Income tax collections for the first nine months of the present fiscal year ended December 31 amounted to $54,720,648, according to a statement issued by Minister of National Revenue R. C. Matthews. This compared with $34,511,087, collected in the same period last year, showing a net increase of $20,209,561. Toronto led in total collections with $16,898,168, a net increase of $1,337,117.

In other districts totals were: Vancouver, $3,797,797; Charlottetown, $261,684; Halifax, $893,182; Winnipeg, $1,675,786; Kingston, $159,161; Edmonton, $38,349.

Caribou Migration

Countless Animals Pass Lonely Northern Cabin For Three Weeks

Edmonton.—Day and night for three weeks, seven files of caribou marched past the lonely northern cabin of Frank Conbar, trapper, as they migrated toward their winter feeding ground, he reported. He estimated that every 24 hours, 50,000 animals passed in single file down the seven trails in sight.

Furs generally are scarce this year, reports from the Northwest Territories indicate, although skins are of a higher grade than usual. Mink are particularly scarce.

Flour Mills Of Canada Have Sufficient Capacity To Supply World Needs

Ottawa.—If every flour mill in Canada worked 24 hours a day, the combined output would be enough to supply the import requirements of the British empire three times over and in most years the entire world. This evidence of the enormous potential capacity of the Canadian flour industry was given to the royal commission on mass buying at the outset of its investigation into milling and baking.

Canada has too many flour mills in comparison to available export markets, was the effect of a report submitted by W. J. Peaker, special investigator, of Ottawa. Although the number of mills has fallen since 1919, there remains a vast surplus capacity in the industry, due largely to the war-time and post-war boom days.

The Canadian industry is dominated by five companies, the "Big Five" as they are called. Lake of the Woods Milling Co. Ltd., Maple Leaf Milling Company, Ogilvie Flour Mills, Robin Hood Flour Mills and Western Canada Flour Mills. In the past five years, Ogilvie and Western Canada had net profits of $4,017,000 and $199,300 while Maple Leaf had a loss of $5,303,200 and Lake of the Woods $774,000. Peaker said the large loss by the Maple Leaf Company resulted, in part, from speculation in grain and necessitated adjustments in the capital structure.

Some of the large companies, in addition to milling flour, have subsidiary baking plants, bag factories, steamship lines and grain elevators. The income is lumped together, leading Peaker to say:

"They are in a position in some instances of being able to sell flour at a figure below cost and still show a profit on all transactions. The effect of this, it would appear, would be a disturbing factor in the economic structure of the industry, particularly when it is considered that not all the large mills are so situated and very few of the small mills.

In fact, one company, taking their business as a whole, could quote prices consistently under other mills and still not be selling at a loss, all activities being considered."

The probe into the milling and baking industry will last several days and is considered one of the most important handled by the commission.

Prize Winners in Rialto Billiard Tournament

Prize-winners in the Rialto pool room tournaments during the Christmas season were C. Milo first and J. Balloch second in billiards; Frank Treskew and J. Josephs first and second in the snooker competition. Turkeys were awarded as prizes, and about 38 entered in each competition, which provided some interesting games.

Girl Guides Active

On February 1st and 2nd. Arrangements were made for Miss Williams' visit, which is being looked forward to by those interested in guide work.

The announcement that the 1st Lambbrook Company of Girl Guides had recently been organized was received with enthusiasm.

The Coleman Rangers and Rovers (the senior groups of the guides and scouts) held a benefit whist drive and dance on December 1st, in the Italian hall. They wish to thank all who helped to make the evening a success.

Special thanks is accorded Mr. and Mrs. Percy Salt, of Hillcrest, who provided the music without charge.

Here and There

Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain, flagship of the fleet of the company, sails January 19 from New York on its fourth round-the-world cruise, visiting 32 ports in 130 days. Return to New York is scheduled for May 20, 1935. More than 31,000 miles will be covered by the ship on this cruise. This is Canadian Pacific's twelfth annual world cruise.

Four years old and still breaking records, the 25,000-ton Empress of Japan, newest and largest of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Pacific fleet, made the run, Honolulu to Yokohama in six days, 16 hours, 53 minutes, putting the ship in possession of the speed supremacy for all ships of the Pacific crossing.

R. Cornthwaite, fireman, Canadian Pacific Railway, Engineer James Y. Ross and Yardman J. Brophy, Port Arthur, aboard yard engine "5608", pulling 150 empty cars from Port Arthur to Port William, saw a woman lay her head on the rails just ahead of the engine. Cornthwaite leapt through the cab window and from the front floor board jumped just in time to drag the woman clear of the track.

Miss Georgia Englehart, slim girl Alpinist of New York, this summer climbed Mount Assiniboine, highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, and in doing so completed her 100th ascent of the Banff-Lake Louise area. Two years ago she set a new woman's endurance championship by scaling 38 peaks in a single summer in that section.

Low winter fares good from December 15 to February 28 are being offered by the railways covering round trips to Canada's Evergreen Playground, that favored region in British Columbia called Vancouver Island, with the beautiful capital of the province, Victoria, and all the sports and pleasures of summer available during the winter months brought within the purse limits of the average Canadian.

The big event of 1935 will be the pageantry and picturesque functions of the 25th anniversary of King George's accession to the throne, set for May 6 next, which will continue until well into July. Summer festivals of Canadian Pacific liners have been planned to connect with these events.

The Laurentians, Eastern Canada's winter playground, face the biggest season in their history with an ambitious programme of ski events calling for 15 meets of various kinds, not counting the Dominion and international inter-collegiate championships extending from January 1 to April 21. It is announced by the Laurentian Zone committee of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association.

Consider the Cow

If your advt. were in this space as many people would read it as are reading this. But your advt. isn't here, and people do not worry whether you are selling real estate, gasoline, peanuts or popcorn.

Did you ever sit down in the pasture with a pail between your knees and wait for a cow to back up and be milked?

Of course not. You know better than that.

Well, business is somewhat like a cow. You've got to go after it and round it up. The fellow with the milk pail between his knees may get some milk, but the odds are all in favor of the fellow who drives up the cow and feeds her.

Some kind of advertising must be done if a business is to amount to anything. Either walking and talking or writing, or printing. But the least costly, most profitable and dignified way is by the regular newspaper—people pay for it. They value it and have faith in the advertisements in it.

This Job Is Not Too Big For Canadians

Taxes, taxes, taxes.
Take all the nuisance taxes imposed by the Dominion Government:

a stamp on every cheque you issue;
a tax on every bottle of liquor, every cigar,
every cigarette,
a tax on every box of matches, every deck
of cards;
a tax on every automobile.

Then add to this amount the total of the domestic sales tax.

Add all these taxes together; the ones you pay; the ones that 10,000,000 other Canadians pay. What total have you? For the governmental year 1933: $99,075,151.

Now consider what the Canadian National Railways cost us in the calendar year 1933: $97,700,000.

THAT IS WHERE YOUR TAXES GO.

The deficit on the Canadian National Railways in 1933 was greater than the combined Dominion expenditures in the fiscal year 1933 on agriculture; on our foreign affairs, including our legations abroad; on fisheries; on immigration; on Indian affairs; on administration of justice and penitentiaries; on labor; on old age pensions; on health; on marine affairs; on mines; on our national art gallery; on our archives; on public works; on mounted police; on trade and commerce; on unemployment relief.

That is why The Financial Post speaks of the problem of the Canadian National Railways' deficits as CANADA'S BIGGEST NATIONAL PROBLEM.

Three years ago Canada decided to see what could be done about solving the railway problem. The Royal Commission on Railways and Transportation was appointed. It brought in the Duff report.

This report recommended:

1. A non-political board of trustees to run the C. N. R.
2. Co-operation between the two chief railways to reduce expenses by cutting out unnecessary duplication of services.
3. The institution of the most rigorous economies on the Government railways.

A grave warning accompanied the recommendations:

"We feel compelled, as a matter of public duty, to strike a serious note of warning to the people of Canada . . ."

The warning was this: that Canada must either solve its railway problem, or reduce expenditures in other directions, or pile on new taxes.

The alternative was that "the very stability of the nation's finances . . . will be threatened, with serious consequences to the people of Canada . . ."

Parliament put the Duff recommendations into execution. The Government appointed three trustees to run the C. N. R., gave them — and particularly the chairman — virtually dictatorial powers. It directed them to economize and to co-operate with the C. P. R. to CUT EXPENSES.

The whole purpose was to save the Canadian National Railways; to maintain the country's solvency; to avoid, if at all possible any such drastic measure as amalgamation of all the chief railway lines of Canada.

Most of 1934 has passed. The record of what has or has not been accomplished under the plan is an open book. And the pages of this book are almost barren of achievement.

There has been little co-operation between the railways.

There have been only the most inadequate new measures of economy on the National Railways.

The railway burden has been reduced in only infinitesimal proportions. The annual deficit is running along at about the former level of nearly $100,000,000 a year.

Non-political administration, efficient and economical operation, and railway co-operation have not been given a fair trial.

The country is just so much nearer to the "serious consequences" that the Duff Commission foresaw.

Mr. Beatty urged amalgamation as the way out. But Canada decided to try the Duff recommendations first. These recommendations have not been pursued. Extravagance and politics continue to rule on the Government line.

The situation is serious and the need for action is urgent.

Every citizen of Canada, no matter what his views on the ultimate solution of the railway problem, is interested.

This is not a question of choosing between private ownership and public ownership.

It is not a question of choosing between amalgamation or competition.

It is a question of choosing between a fair trial of the railway solution provided by the Duff commission and Parliament on the one hand and national insolvency on the other.

You as a citizen have an interest in this matter. It touches your pocket book. It touches the future of your business and your job. It touches the future of the Canada where you live and where your children must live. Do you want action on the railway problem? Then you must demand it.

Demand it of the Canadian National Railway. Demand it of the Government.

Make your views known. Tell them to your friends. Write them to the chairman of the Canadian National Railways. Write them to your member of Parliament or to the Prime Minister. Write them to your newspaper or to The Financial Post. We shall be glad to publish them.

Solving the railway problem is the supreme challenge before Canada today. The eyes of the world are on Canada. We must not fail.

Can we make a success of this job? Of course we can. LET US START NOW.

Old Human Relation

Patients Like Doctor To Show Personal Interest In Them

When he exhorted the medical students to remember that patients are human beings Sir John Ross Bradford earned the layman's gratitude.

In these days of intense specialization and dark complexity of medical science it may not be the doctors' fault that patients sometimes feel that the old human relation has vanished and the sufferer becomes only a case.

The excessive function of the old bedside manner is desired by few people nowadays, but we would not have our doctor scientifically impersonal.—London Daily Telegraph.

Old Fort Montgomery

Belongs To United States And Once Called "Fort Blunder"

The fortification known as "Fort Blunder" was started in 1816 at Rouses Point, N.Y., under the supervision of a United States engineer.

The plan of the fort was abandoned. It was to be 10 bastioned and occupy about three-fourths of an acre. The walls were to be about 30 feet high. It was believed that the fort would be of great strategic value, but in 1818 it was found that the fort was located within the territory of Canada, and work was abandoned. It was known for many years as Fort Blunder. Its correct name is Fort Montgomery. By the Webster treaty of 1842 the fort was ceded to the United States.

Super-Giant Stars Detected By Infra-Red Photographic Plates

Detection of a clan of 20 super-giant stars by use of infra-red photographic plates which "see" heat, was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The discovery indicates that the heavens are probably inhabited by large numbers of dimly glowing, gigantic stars, whose size the eye and ordinary photography have missed.

All 20 stars have been known many years, but their ordinary, visible light gave no indication of unusual size. All are "long-period variables," stars whose visible light waxes and wanes over periods of several months.

Lest We Forget

War Film Designed To Bring Canadians The Lesson Of The Futility Of War

While the government cannot be said to have "gone Hollywood," it is nevertheless true that cabinet ministers now appreciate the problems attendant upon evolving a title for a moving picture.

A recent meeting of the privy council held the unusual spectacle of the nation's administrators seriously queried and mocking their pencils as they tried out various titles for the film shortly to be produced under government sanction. Finally an inspiration struck the cabinet, and "Lest We Forget" was born and approved.

And so, "Lest We Forget" it is—the name of the picture compiled from many thousands of feet of film taken overseas during the war, and trimmed into a connected and coherent story of Canada's war effort, is designed to bring home to the Canadian public the stupor and fruitlessness of war. The picture is being presented and will have its premiere early in the new year under the auspices of the Canadian Legion.

The production is of feature length, dividing the war into three definite periods.

In all sequences the cost of war is vividly illustrated.

Recipes For This Week

Western Lambs Again Sent To Ontario For Finishing

The experiment of bringing western range lambs down to Ontario for finishing which was started last year is being repeated this year in a much larger way. At the present time close to 7,000 lambs are on feed with some 65 farmers. Twenty-four carloads of lambs, from 19 western sheep ranchers, are now shipped throughout central and eastern Ontario and will be marketed as soon as they reach proper weights.

Notable Progress Made by Royal Bank of Canada

Deposits Increase $50,000,000—Liquid Assets $382,172,287
—Profits Down Slightly After Heavier Taxes

The financial statement of The Royal Bank of Canada for the year ended November 30, 1934, reflects a period of improved business conditions. Figures of total assets, deposits, cash, investments, commercial loan and note circulation all show an increase during the year.

Total assets are $768,423,904 of which $382,172,287 are liquid, being 50.1 per cent. of total assets, compared with 50.75 per cent. a year ago. Cash, cheques and bank balances aggregate $185,885,031 or 24.35 per cent. of total assets.

Government and municipal securities have increased during the period from $113,782,602 to $133,220,489.

Big Gain In Deposits

The outstanding feature of the statement is the increase of $50,554,510 in public deposits. Of this increase it is understood that $43,347,334 is in Canada, the balance abroad, Canadian savings deposits being up $11,236,363.

Another steady decline in commercial loans of banks in Canada over the period of the past few years, is encouraging note as further evidence of business revival, that the Royal Bank's figures under this heading show an increase of $102,494, the total standing at $226,942,028.

Profits for the year were $4,398,217 but not properly comparable with published profits for the previous year, because heretofore they were reported after deducting Provincial taxes but before Federal taxes. For the sake of uniformity, and the fuller information of shareholders, both classes of taxes are now disclosed in the published report.

During the year under review Dominion and Provincial taxes aggregated $1,075,016. Making allowance for the increase under this heading, profits are lower by $268,448. Net profits, after taxes, covering dividend requirements of $2,800,000, annual contribution of $200,000 to Officers' Pension Fund, the annual appropriation of $200,000 for Bank Premises, and left a surplus of $123,200 to be added to Profit and Loss Account, increasing that account to $1,506,804 to be carried forward to the next fiscal year.

The showing, while gratifying to the shareholders, will this year be of special interest to the public, as it affords perhaps the most striking evidence yet given of the extent of the improvement in trade throughout Canada.

The Annual General Meeting of shareholders will be held at the Head Office of the bank in Montreal on Thursday, January 10th.

The principal accounts, with comparative figures for the year, are as follows:

	1934	1933
Total Assets	$768,423,904	$720,290,476
Liquid Assets	$382,172,287	$382,471,645

Finds New Principles On How Sound Waves Function

Discovery of new principles of how sound waves act, useful in ways ranging from making speakers better heard in halls to improved understanding of chemical compounds, won the $1,000 prize of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The winner was Prof. Vern Oliver Knudsen, chairman of the department of physics of the University of California at Los Angeles. His paper was entitled "The Absorption of Sound in Gases."

The prize is awarded annually by the association for a noteworthy scientific paper on the program of an annual meeting, and is usually given to a comparatively young scientist rather than a man who already has attained eminence. Prof. Knudsen is 41. He is married and has three children.

Prof. Knudsen has found that oxygen in the air plays the most important part in the dying away of some sounds because it absorbs sound very rapidly. Also moist air usually transmits sound better than dry air. For each different pitch or frequency of sound there is a different degree of humidity or moistness of the air which absorbs the sound most rapidly.

Air can be "conditioned" for best possible hearing conditions. It was explained, for Prof. Knudsen has found a way to calculate the "acoustic transparency" or rate at which sound will die away in air, at any temperature or degree of humidity.

Older Resident

Needle At Age Of 111

Canada's most famous citizens, the Dionne quintuplets of Callander, Ont., have been in the public eye since they were born seven months ago. But less than 10 miles from their birthplace is a man who lived past the century mark to become a figure in the news.

John Birch is his name. He lives at North Bay. His age is 111. He is probably the oldest person in Canada. John Birch celebrated his 111th birthday on June 4 last, just a week after the quintuplets were born.

He is a native of Sebastopol, a veteran of the Crimean war, has been in Canada since 1866. His eyesight is so keen he was able to thread a needle on his birthday. He didn't even require his wife to sew down some steps of a veranda.

Scattered across Canada are a number of persons well beyond the age of 100. For its population, Nova Scotia boasts an impressive number of centenarians. When the old age pension act was put into effect last spring, 10 persons in that category were included.

The Indian elephant ranks third highest among intelligent animals, the chimpanzee is first and the orang-utan second.

The temperature seven miles above the earth is nearly constant, according to scientific belief.

Too often they get married nowadays for better or worse—but not for good.

Needs Pled Piper

England wants a piped piper like the man who lives in Hants town. Gas attacks, firearms, deadly poison and all the scheme of modern science marshalled against the estimated 40-odd million rodents resident in the country have failed. Authorities believe rats have become more numerous by 20,000,000 in the last 50 years.

PETER'S GREAT AFFIRMATION

Golden text: "And Simon Peter answered and said: Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." Matthew 16:16.

Lesson: Matthew 16:13-28; Luke 9:18-22; 1 Peter 2:5, 6. Devotional reading: Psalm 34:1-8.

Explanations And Comments

Peter's Great Affirmation of Faith, Luke 9:18-22. Now it happened that while Jesus was praying by himself, his disciples were beside him. (Matthew's translation.) Suddenly he turned to them and asked, "Who do the multitudes say that I am?" Very readily they answered, "John the Baptist; others, Elijah; and yet others, one of the old prophets." Mt. 16:14 adds "Jeremiah." Recall how Herod had called Jesus John the Baptist, Mt. 14:2.

"There was no man then living with whom he could be compared. When we want to stir men's hearts, we appeal to the dead; when we search for the great, we descend into the grave, we talk of Shakespeare and Caesar, of Charlemagne and Alaric, of the emperors and the popes, we do not use the name of a man living. That is what the Jews thought, answered with conviction, 'The Christ of God.'"

"But who say ye that I am?" continued Jesus. The ye is emphatic. But ye, who do ye say that I am? And Peter, as spokesman for the group, answered with conviction, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God."

Matthew's report of his words: "The lowest origin of the Carpenter, the familiarity of daily intercourse, the shocks of disapproval, the delay of hopes, might have been enough, the haughty reputation of Jesus by the authorized teachers of Israel, the change of his popularity in Galilee, might have almost justified a fisherman's inability to decide this momentous question. But, in spite of all doubts and dreadful uncertainties there was that in Simon's soul which leapt up in answer to the Master's word, his heart's cry, his sudden sense of the greatness of the reality in Jesus—impelled by this spirit, he trumpeted down all doubts, and burst out in enthusiastic confession of faith and loyalty." (Wm. A. Grist).

An Extraordinary Figure

Lloyd George Is Man World Cannot Ignore

It was a summer afternoon in 1890 when Mr. Gladstone, in frockcoat and waistcoat, complimented Mr. Lloyd George, fresh from a by-election in Carnarvon. In the long years since then two reigning British sovereigns have died, the British Empire has fought two wars, dynasties and nations have disappeared, the map of the world has been changed. Yet now we read that this same Lloyd George, whose voice has sounded through all this din of four decades of world upheaval and revolution, is to launch a new political movement.

In his 71st year, veteran of a thousand fights, he is "buckling on his armor." No need to ask of the movement which Lloyd George is to lead. The arresting thing here is not the movement, but the man; this beginning of a new chapter in the story of a leader whose career defies fiction. Men may admire Lloyd George passionately, or hate him violently; it is impossible to ignore him. Whatever history's final verdict upon him, whatever it may decide about his policies and his motives, it will have to write of him as one of the most extraordinary figures of his time.—Ottawa Journal.

Divine Shroud

Science Claims To Have Proved Authenticity Of Relic

Science, with the aid of infra-red rays, claims to have proved the authenticity of the Divine Shroud, a possession of the Italian royal family.

Infra-red photographs taken of the Shroud and the Tunic—a relic accepted by the Roman Catholic church as the actual Tunic worn by Christ when bearing the Cross to Calvary—show blood stains on both garments.

Experts claim that the marks on both relics correspond with the Biblical details of the Agony of Christ. On the Shroud there are traces of the flagellation. The Tunic shows traces of a shoulder wound, which, it is claimed, was undoubtedly made by the weight of the Cross.

Leaves Its Mark

Criminologists have discovered a new crime detection method by which it is claimed one can establish reasonably definitely who fired "the hot shot" in a case. The method is based on the fact that fine quantities of nitrates and pitrites which are the combustion products of gunpowder are deposited upon the hands of anyone who fires a revolver or pistol.

England has now only one maker of hand-made nails. C. Williams turns out 50 pounds of giant barge nails in eight hours.

SULPHUR

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Sulphur is an element which occurs abundantly and is widely distributed in nature. In the free state, it is combined with other elements, it is found in volcanic districts of Italy, Sicily, Iceland, Mexico and other countries. Native sulphur is abundant in Sicily and in the United States.

Sulphur in the combined state, that is joined with other elements, is much more common and widely distributed than native sulphur. It is found chiefly as sulphides and sulphates. Sulphides are chemical compounds containing sulphur and one other element, usually a metal. Many sulphide minerals are of great value to man, such as iron pyrites, copper pyrites, zinc sulphide or blende, lead sulphide or galena, and mercuric sulphide or cinnabar. Very much more like gold and hence is called "fool's gold."

Sulphates are found in vast quantities, both in the earth's crust and in sea-water. Calcium sulphate or gypsum is one of the most important parts of most forms of life. Sulphur compounds are also found in the vegetable and animal kingdoms.

Sulphur is thus an essential part of most forms of life. Sulphur compounds are found in garlic, onions, hair, wool, the blood and other parts of animal substances. Sulphur is also found in petroleum and in coal. It is an undesirable substance in fuel, because it injures boilers and grate-burners.

Sulphur has many important commercial uses. Its chief use is to produce sulphuric acid, which is used extensively in the manufacture of insecticides for use in orchards and vineyards. The chief sulphur insecticide is known as lime-sulphur spray. It is produced by boiling sulphur with slaked lime, by which process a deep red liquid is obtained. This liquid is an excellent insecticide, especially for scale, and it can also be used as a fungicide.

Gift Of Tea For Queen

Century Of Production Marked By Empire Tea Growers

Last year was the centenary of the tea-growing industry in the British Empire, and the tea-producers of the Empire celebrated it by presenting to the Queen a casket holding 15 pounds of tea. The casket itself is a lovely thing, made of Bombay rosewood inlaid with Ceylon satinwood and ebony, and the tea inside is unique. It is blended from 15 of the finest known teas, seven from Ceylon, six from India and two from East Africa.

One of the components of this rare mixture is a tea from Darjeeling, which looks more like tobacco than tea, and is described as having a "very fine, smoky flavor." It is probably the most expensive tea in the world, $3.25 a pound, and is used in minute quantities for flavoring teas of humble vintage.

Queer Religious Rite

Devotees Of Long In India Have Delong Task

For five days unusual religious celebration is being taking place in the South Indian town of Ellore in connection with the worship of the deity Sri Rama. Each devotee is required to write the name of Sri Rama ten million times, the belief being that this gives salvation to the writer. The process takes each devotee years to accomplish. The writing is done in specially prepared books, with rules and columns, so as to make counting easy. All books of devotees are placed near the image and worshipped, with flowers and chanting, for a number of days. The books, along with the image are taken out in procession. After the celebration the books are taken to a sacred temple of Sri Rama and offered to the god.

"Aye, I struck a regular Easter gremlin. The whole damned ranch was layin' for me! I reckon this time that man Dustin isn't under any false impressions where we stand. Who's this?"

The startled door to the barroom was nearly torn from its hinges as Hoskins, the telegraph operator, flung into the lobby.

"I'm lookin' for one Duro Stone," he shouted. "Oh! Here you are! I got an answer to your telegram, Stone. That wire you sent to Gerald Keene, I'll send a copy to you later. This man Keene wired a answer. He says: he'll be with you the tenth of next month."

"Fine! . . ." Stone elbowed a man aside and headed for the street and the crowd sucked back from him. The man who could best Sam Dustin, Corse and the pay roll of the Broken Spur was not to be held lightly. With Dustin and Corse his sworn enemies, he was a marked man in Seco. With Frank Crewe at his side he snatched his pony from the tie-rack, they swung into saddle and headed down the street.

Once on the open trail, Crewe demanded and got an explanation. As Stone told him the details of the old manager's face stiffened and grew serious.

"There a lot behind this that we don't see," he said. "I'm glad this man Keene is comin'."

Neither of them knew that that message hung ahead in the bar of the Silver Dollar set fire to Dustin. The moment he realized what Hoskins had said he whirled Corse aside and started for the door.

"We'll get back to the Broken Spur as quick as we can," he said. "I've got business to attend to."

He had.

CHAPTER VIII.

The word of that telegram galvanized Sam Dustin into instant life. Once back at the ranch-house at the Broken Spur he hustled Spike Goddard into the office for conference.

laughing, grinned a little as his partner heaved an old boot after them.

"They made their first camp at Box Springs, a little about-marked 'draw' where the thirty ponies and burros at first refused to drink the white-encrusted water in the shallow pools. The three men had to boil every drop before drinking and even then Dustin could not swallow the bitter stuff till Kane dug out some slices of the sour cholla buds that made it drinkable."

Kane pulled him from his blankets at dawn and again they headed westward against the line of the blue foot hills. In that wild tangle of mesquite and aspen trails that Dustin reflected any man might be pardoned for not being sure of his own property lines. This might or might not be Hour-glass land.

All that day they rode slowly up the slope; they headed long "draws" and followed the dewy trails that clung to the hillsides as a man's eyebrow clinging to his face till finally, on a bluff point that overlooked the valley of the Stinking Water, old Kane shouted for a halt.

"That 'ere valley's a good place to camp if you kin drink that stinkin' sulphur water that it's named fer," said Kane.

"How far is it to the claim?" asked Dustin.

"Not more'n a thousand yards," Kane headed his pony down the hill and waved to the lingering Peyotl to drive the burros into camp.

"Three days' march fer us," wheezed old Kane, "and not more'n twelve miles as the crow flies from the Hour-glass. Wouldn't old man Joe Carr give a man-sized drink to know what we know about what lies at hand under his hand?"

"To Dustin's queasy conscience it seemed that Kane was just clamoring for trouble. He felt sick at heart. The day was warm and there was a pleasant smell of madrons and juniper on the wind but the day felt sick and dark to him. He felt sick and he noticed that the palms of his hands were wet with sweat. The thing that he meant to do made him sick at heart yet he felt not the slightest hesitation about doing it. He had to do it or . . . go to jail, maybe for life! Once or twice there came to him memories of other days. Memories that he had, more or less successfully, stifled till now. He remembered his Alaska trip in '99 and the heart-breaking trail over Chilkoot. He could never forget Bender. They had caught Bender stealing flour when a pound of flour was worth a man's life and Bender had paid the price. He remembered that Bender, before they shot him, had told them that some day they would regret it. He wondered vaguely why he should think now of Bender. . . Kane had stolen no food as Bender had! Kane had not . . . Wait! Kane and Kane alone knew where that gold was that would make them rich? That would enable him, Dustin, to get Edith Carr and choose the pleasant places of the earth in which to live. . . Once he knew where that hidden vein lay all would be his. . . But . . . Dad Kane must never return to tell what he knew!"

He watched the old man hobbling his pony and set out with a bucket for the spring. He watched Peyotl cutting up some bacon on the bottom of an overturned bucket and placing a huge coffee-pot on the fire. He ate his supper in silence and, while he was still smoking, old Kane rose. "Come on, Dustin," he said with a senile grin. "I'll show you where it's at. . . ."

Dustin rose and stretched.

"All right," he said pleasantly. "Take one last look at the ponies. Dad, while I get some tobacco. . . . Be with you in a minute!"

His busy fingers pulled a package from his saddle-bags and he was aware of Peyotl's eyes centered on his back. He said that package unintentionally on a flat rock and wanted off to join Kane. He was acutely aware of Peyotl watching eyes and of his greedily salivating mouth. The moment the two men disappeared around a turn in the trail Peyotl's eyes lit with a somber glow as he seized the package from the rock and tore it open. He withdrew his hand full of a brown substance like dried liquorice root and a thick cloud of evil-smelling starchy cigarettes from the ends of which a brown substance, that was certainly no tobacco, fell into his eager hands.

Peyotl snatched them with a little choking cry. In one motion he crammed his mouth full of the dry dust and with another lit one of the cigarettes. For the next hour the gorilla-like figure squatted over the fire lighting one cigarette after the butt of another while old Dad Kane with his employer walked unknowingly into the Valley of the Shadow.

CHAPTER IX.

Kane led the way across the flat to the lip of the canon where a line of juniper trees showed their tops above the edge.

"It's down in the bottom," he said briefly. "You can't see the place from here. I'll show you."

Dustin followed him down the shaly slope in the face of which he knew that Kane was to show him but on what he himself intended to do. Obviously it must be done back in camp when Peyotl had been given time to get under the influence of the drug that had been so artfully placed in his hand. Would Kane fight? Would he suspect anything, or struggle? Dustin felt that he could not endure a struggle. Would any part of his plan that involved Peyotl miscarry? If it did, the whole plan must be re-arranged. His nerves were frayed to follietries when Kane, stopping at the foot of the steep incline, turned on him sharply.

"Look there. . . ." His hand pointed to a red spot on the hillside fifty yards down the canon. It was not much; just a form of "germy" holes which Dustin knew that the family of Kane had set back into the hillside for some eight or ten feet and laid bare a vein of rock. He had followed that vein in its wandering and had cross-cut a heading to intercept the vein at a turn in the slope and he had stripped a large part of the hillside. Dustin knew a little of ore and ore-valued whistled. "That vein and all above it was gold! Gold clear up to the grass-roots!"

"I tried to fill it up again after I'd picked up the vein," said Kane, "but was too late. The family of Kane had set back into the hillside for some eight or ten feet and laid bare a vein of rock. He had followed that vein in its wandering and had cross-cut a heading to intercept the vein at a turn in the slope and he had stripped a large part of the hillside. Dustin knew a little of ore and ore-valued whistled. "That vein and all above it was gold! Gold clear up to the grass-roots!"

Dustin sat down on a big boulder and made some rapid calculations. There was no water in this canon. Then they could not run a table; a wulffey table that runs with little water and less work. The best they could do would be to dam Chollo Canon, next across the ridge; pump the water over here and work a table. Maybe set up a four-head stamp-mill and table the dirt. He knew that the very first burro-load of ore sent to a smelter would give the whole thing away and there would be a rush to that canon that would throw into the shade the rush to Tonopah. He had taken part in that rush and he remembered it well.

Of course, old Kane was quite right about Miners' Law. Kane had located that ore-lead and he was entitled to follow it, but . . . Was it actually on Hour-glass land? If it was, there was no water in this canon. Then there was a question about it. With so much land and ore, it was almost impossible that a man should know his line. He said as much to Kane. The old man laughed grimly.

"If you're honest about that . . . I don't doubt it most damnably. . . . It ain't likely you're honest about land than cattle. If you'll steal Joe Carr's cows, you'll steal his land. . . . If, I say, you're honest about that then the best thing to do is to see old man Carr. If he's properly approached, he'll probably sell mineral rights on a royalty basis. . . . It'll be better to get a share than to have a fight in court."

Dustin smothered. "If you even try to talk to Joe Carr you'll give the whole thing away. Just one word dropped to him'll give him the information he needs. Once he learns there's pay-dirt on the land of the Hour-glass there'll be one hell of a row and don't you forget it. We'll say nothin' to Carr. Let's get back to camp. We've got to get some stakes and locate the claim before he learns about it."

They headed back for camp and Dustin spent the last hours of daylight splitting and facing a half-dozen stakes from a dead juniper tree. The moon presently came up, a great yellow ball over the eastern ridge and the hobbled ponies wandering through the brush sounded like an avalanche in the stillness.

Dustin eyed Peyotl. All was going as he wished. Peyotl had found the heap of cigarettes and dope and had smoked himself into a Nirvana of his own. He was lying back on one pack-saddle, feet on another and staring straight up at the stars that were winked at them through miles of windy space. Peyotl had passed into that drug-induced sleep that would last till the cold of early dawn would awaken him. After that he would be innocently lit. From time to time Dustin could see him shiver and he knew well enough what was taking place. Under that potent drug the fool who used it was suffering worse tortures than De Quincey ever knew. Those tortures would drag him through the seven Hells of terror and in which his feet were clattered, his mind alert. He could see and feel things that he could not avoid. Dustin's blood ran cold as he contemplated his victim. . . . for in his plan Peyotl and not old Kane was the real victim.

A voice as loud as a shout suddenly assailed his ears. A voice to which he had never listened screamed at him through years of a questionable past. He had not heard his conscience for many years and he did not know now. But it shrilled a question in his startled ears.

Why do this thing? What could it avail him?

The answer came after years of hell!

If old Kane went back to civilization with what he knew; if he talked to men he knew in Seco; and if a drunken prospectus was bound to talk; he would strip Dustin and Goddard of all that they had won through so many years. For just one brief moment what had been his better self appealed to him. . . . Was it not better to let old Kane go free? Was it not better to give up what he had so dishonestly won and to be able to sleep at nights than to have forever as his sleeping and waking accompaniments those eerie sounds that conscience could conjure up? For just one brief moment those thoughts came to him. Then . . .

He saw a line of blank gray walls at Florence with armed wardens pacing the crests of those walls. He saw himself in a striped suit wielding a heavy hammer. Instantly he threw the thought aside and came back to an earthly earth. That fate should never be his! Dad Kane and Joe Carr could go to hell.

He would take Edith Carr! In that moment her radiant beauty shone out in a moment of irradiated passion. . . . He had known many other women and he knew that what he would win would win her. A little force and a few kisses given judiciously would win any woman. And after this question of property was settled, he would have a stranglehold on her. No decent woman would see her father ruined rather than marry a personable man who could and would save that father! He stood and watched the quivering Peyotl, then strode back to the fire and lit his pipe with a half-dead ember. Suddenly he made up his mind. This was the time.

"Hey, Dad!" he called. "Dad Kane . . . Wake up. . . ."

He had passed the allotted span of a dog's life, being about 14 years, but he managed to keep on his feet almost to the last. He was a faithful pal.

S. W. Chahley returned this week from Grand Forks, B.C., where with Mrs. Chahley he went just prior to Christmas to bury their little daughter Vienna, who passed away on December 22nd after a week's illness. Mrs. Chahley will remain at Grand Forks for the present with relatives. Their bereavement, coming on the eve of the festive season, brought many expressions of sympathy from friends and neighbors.

The annual convention of the weekly newspaper publishers of Alberta, members of the Alberta division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, will be held in the Palliser hotel, Calgary, on Jan. 25th - 26th. The president is E. S. Duncan, of Banff, and H. G. McCrea, of Hanna, is secretary.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

William Antel has been appointed town constable during the leave granted to Constable J. Houghton, and commenced duties on Wednesday. He is well known, coming to Coleman in 1910, and in 1915 he went overseas with the 192nd Battalion, enlisting here. Serving in France from 1916 to 1919, he returned to Coleman, and in 1921 entered the Dominion forestry service, in later years being ranger at The Gap. For two years his wife and children have lived in town, on Sixth street, moving out to The Gap during school holidays. During the winter the forestry station at The Gap is closed.
